4.5 the idea of matching patients to treatment is widely accepted, but it is unclear precisely how this should be done in clinical practice.

Following the procedure, you will be given instructions for recovery and care—these usually involve rest, dietary suggestions, and pain medication.

I have since developed grade B esophagitis (erosions in my esophagus).